EXTRA.2 O'CLOCK.*FIVE SUFFOCATED*Fatal Fire in a Henry Street Double Tenement.*Children Locked In While Their Mothers Went Marketing.*Pitiful Anguish of Parents Who Lost Their Little Ones.*Five children were suffocated in a 5,000 tenement-house fire at 104 Henry street this morning. Four of the children were of one family. These are the dead:*BERNSTEIN, ADLER, eleven years.*BERNSTEIN, REBECCA, nine years.*BERNSTEIN, HEYMANN, six years.*BERNSTEIN, RACHAEL, six months.*ROSEN, FANNIE, seven years.*The house is one of the kind known as "double decks." It is six stories high and sixteen families live in it.*Two stores on the ground floor are occupied by P. Jacobs as a bakery and by Jacob Levy as a butcher shop.*This morning's was the second fatal fire in the house. April 20, 1891, there was a fire on the first floor, in which two children were suffocated.*Caused by a Stove Explosion.*Like many tenement-house fires, this morning's was caused by the explosion of an oil stove. Meyer Neiper and his wife survived the fire on the fourth floor back.*At 7:45 this morning she was engaged in cooking breakfast, when the oil stove which she was using caught fire.*In vain Mrs. Neiper endeavored to extinguish the flames, and suddenly the blazing stove exploded, setting fire to the apartments. Hastily seizing their sleeping children, Mr. and Mrs. Neiper fled to the street, their cries alarming the other tenants.*But not all awoke. The four children of Adam Bernstein and his wife were soundly sleeping in their apartments in the rear of the top story, their parents having locked them in while they went marketing in Bester street.*Children Locked In.*A similar errand called Mrs. Rosen, who lived across the hall, to the same locality, and she, too, was locked in her three children.*The firemen rescued two of the four children, one of them stark naked, and carried them across the street to kind-hearted neighbors. But little could be done for the others.*When the firemen got there smoke was pouring from the top story windows, and the fire was well under way. The building was soon alight, and Barber Richmond was to have made a note and had been despondent on account of financial troubles. As far as known he had no friends or relatives.*Barber, who is recovering, the young barber, says he will recover and will be out in a few days.

stein, Neiper and Fishman had the fourth story, on the third lived two families of the name of Solomon and Macey.

The other family got out over the roof, while the others, who were behind the names, had eaten up the stairway. The smoke was very intense and filled the halls and apartments.

Brave Samuel Jacobs

Samuel Jacobs, of 104 Henry street, was passing at the time the fire started. He ran upstairs and saved life in Rosen. He carried her downstairs into the street. He tried to go back again, but the smoke was so thick that he came near losing his life.

The flames did not get into Bernstein's apartments, but the children were suffocated by the smoke. All were found huddled together.

The Rosen girl was slightly burned and death was caused by suffocation.

The firemen rolled the bodies up in blankets and took them through the front door.

A pitiful wall went up from the men and women who were segregated in the street, while the firemen made their appearance with the dead children in their arms.

Mrs. Bernstein, the unfortunate mother, cut her hair, laid herself, and it was all she could do to lead her to a neighbor's room.

She was assisted by the stoop of the next house, a friend who had come to see one of the bodies. A soon as she saw it she began to scream. She tore her hair out, beat her head against the wall of the building and ran screaming into the street. It is feared that she has gone insane.

The five little bodies were carried into the station of John H. Kelly, on the ground floor, of which was temporarily turned into a morgue, laid out. When six more lives had been sacrificed, they were removed to the Madison street police station.

Meanwhile a friend had gone for Bernstein, the father of the children, who was employed as a porter in Jefferson street, the same running to him after the bodies were taken this morning.
